A 21-DAY BREAKUP RECOVERY GUIDE

Unhooked

The 21-Day No-Contact Reset

A breakup recovery plan to stop reaching out, quiet the triggers & come home to yourself

21 DAYS

3 PHASES

10+ WORKSHEETS

WELCOME

If you're holding this, your heart is hurting.

Maybe it was a long relationship. Maybe it was a situationship that never had a name. Either way, the ache is real, and so is the pull to reach out one more time.

This guide is built for that pull. Over the next 21 days you'll create space between you and the person you're healing from, learn to handle the urges and triggers that make no contact so hard, and rebuild a daily sense of confidence that belongs to you alone.

You don't need to feel ready. You don't need to be fully over them to begin. You only need to do today's page.

WHAT THIS IS

A practical, day-by-day plan with a short insight, one clear action and a journal prompt for each day, plus worksheets for your hardest moments.

WHAT THIS ISN'T

A strategy to win someone back, or a replacement for professional support. It's a plan to get you back.

With you every step,

you've got this.

BEFORE YOU BEGIN

How to use this guide

1

One page a day

Read the daily insight in the morning, do the action at some point during the day, and answer the journal prompt in the evening. Ten to twenty minutes is enough.

2

Track your urges

Each day page has a quick check-in. Circle how strong the urge to contact them felt. Watching that number fall is powerful proof that this works.

3

Keep the toolkit close

The SOS Plan, Trigger Map and Reality Check list at the back are your emergency kit. Screenshot them or keep them on your phone.

4

Print it or go digital

Print the pages and write by hand, or use the PDF in an annotation app like GoodNotes or Notability. Writing by hand tends to slow racing thoughts.

5

Slip? Don't quit.

If you break no contact, you haven't failed the plan. Turn to the Slip-Up Reset, learn from it, and pick up on the next day's page.

A gentle note: This guide offers self-help tools, not therapy or medical advice. If you're struggling to function, feel unsafe, or have thoughts of harming yourself, please reach out to a professional or a crisis line right away (see page 39).

THE SCIENCE OF THE PULL

Why it's so hard to stop reaching out

If you feel almost addicted to them right now, you're not being dramatic. You're being human.

Brain-imaging research on people who had recently been rejected in love, including studies led by anthropologist Dr. Helen Fisher, found that heartbreak activates brain regions tied to reward, motivation and craving: the same systems involved in addiction. Every message, story view or memory gives your brain a small hit of hope, and then the withdrawal returns.

That's why “just one text” rarely feels like just one. Each contact restarts the cycle.

Urge › Contact › Brief relief › Crash & craving

What no contact does

01

Starves the loop

Without new “hits,” cravings gradually lose their intensity.

02

Creates clarity

Distance lets you see the relationship as it was, not as you miss it.

03

Returns your power

Your mood stops depending on whether they reply.

THE GROUND RULES

What no contact really means

NO CONTACT MEANS NO…

- ✕ Texts, calls, voice notes or emails
- ✕ DMs, likes, comments or reactions
- ✕ Viewing their stories or profile
- ✕ “Happy birthday” or holiday messages
- ✕ Asking friends how they're doing
- ✕ Showing up where you know they'll be
- ✕ Posting things meant for them to see

INSTEAD, YOU WILL…

- ✓ Pause 20 minutes before any urge
- ✓ Call your support person instead
- ✓ Write it in your journal, not your phone
- ✓ Read your Reality Check list
- ✓ Move your body when the urge spikes
- ✓ Celebrate every day you keep the promise

If you can't cut contact completely

Co-parenting, shared work, or a shared lease? Use low contact instead: keep communication brief, polite and only about logistics. Use text or email so you can pause before replying. No personal check-ins, no late-night conversations, no “how are you really?”

> “Distance isn't a punishment for them. It's a gift to yourself.”

DAY 1 STARTS HERE

My No-Contact Commitment

I, _____, am choosing to begin no contact with _____ starting on _____.

I'm doing this not to punish anyone or to prove a point, but because I deserve the space to heal, to think clearly, and to rebuild my life on my own terms.

When the urge to reach out feels overwhelming, I promise to pause for 20 minutes, use my SOS Plan, and remember why I started.

MY BIGGEST REASONS FOR DOING THIS

MY SUPPORT PERSON (WHO I'LL CALL INSTEAD)

HOW I'LL CELEBRATE ON DAY 21

SIGNATURE

DATE

YOUR ROADMAP

Three phases, twenty-one days

Each phase builds on the last. You don't have to see the whole staircase. Just take the next step.

PHASE 1 · DAYS 1–7

Detox

Break the loop

- Remove the digital doorways back to them
- Let feelings move instead of fighting them
- Learn the 20-Minute Rule for urges
- Protect sleep, food and movement

PHASE 2 · DAYS 8–14

Rewire

Understand the pull

- Map your personal triggers
- Release the words you never sent
- See the relationship clearly, not just fondly
- Swap harsh self-talk for honest self-talk

PHASE 3 · DAYS 15–21

Rebuild

Come home to yourself

- Fill the hours that used to belong to them
- Build confidence through small kept promises
- Reconnect with friends and old passions
- Write the standards you'll bring to your next chapter

PHASE 1 · DAYS 1–7

01 Detox

Break the loop

The first week is about one thing: creating distance between the urge and the action. You will remove easy access, learn to ride out cravings, and take care of the body that is carrying all of this. It will feel hard. Hard is not the same as wrong.

THIS PHASE, YOU WILL

- Remove the digital doorways back to them
- Learn the 20-Minute Rule for urges
- Let feelings move instead of fighting them
- Protect sleep, food and movement

DAY

01

PHASE 1 · DETOX

Make It Official

No contact works best when it is a decision, not a mood. Today you stop negotiating with yourself every hour and commit to a clear rule: no texts, calls, DMs, likes, story views, or "just checking in." You are not doing this to punish them or to win them back. You are doing it because healing needs space, and you cannot heal from someone you keep reopening.

TODAY'S ACTION

Sign your No-Contact Commitment (page 6). Then tell one trusted person you are starting today and ask them to be your "call me instead" person.

JOURNAL PROMPT

Why am I choosing no contact? What has staying in touch been costing me?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 02

PHASE 1 · DETOX

Close the Doorways

Most broken no-contact streaks don't start with a decision. They start with a thumb: a photo that pops up, a profile one tap away, a playlist on shuffle. Willpower is limited, so make the healthy choice the easy one. You don't have to delete anything forever. You only have to make reaching them take more effort than not reaching them.

TODAY'S ACTION

Mute or unfollow them on every app. Archive the chat. Move photos into one hidden folder. Turn off “memories” notifications. Remove them from your favourites.

JOURNAL PROMPT

Which apps, places or moments make me most likely to check on them?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 03

PHASE 1 · DETOX

Ride the Wave

An urge feels like an emergency, but it behaves like a wave. It builds, it peaks, and if you don't feed it, it passes. Psychologists call this “urge surfing.” Every time you let a wave pass without acting, the next one gets a little weaker. Today you practise the 20-Minute Rule: when an urge hits, you wait 20 minutes before doing anything at all.

TODAY'S ACTION

Next time you want to reach out, set a 20-minute timer and use the SOS Plan (page 34). Afterwards, rate the urge again. Notice that it dropped.

JOURNAL PROMPT

Describe your strongest urge today. What triggered it, and what did I actually need in that moment?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY

04

PHASE 1 · DETOX

Name It to Tame It

Pushing feelings away tends to make them louder. Research on “affect labelling” shows that simply putting a feeling into words can calm the brain's alarm response. You don't have to fix what you feel today. You only have to name it, let it be there, and let it move through you instead of out of you as a text message.

TODAY'S ACTION

Set a 10-minute timer and write without stopping: everything you feel, as messy as it comes. When the timer ends, close the notebook and do something kind for yourself.

JOURNAL PROMPT

Today I feel... Underneath that, I think I feel...

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 05

PHASE 1 · DETOX

Body First

Heartbreak is not only emotional; it is physical. Poor sleep, skipped meals and hours on the couch make every craving stronger and every thought darker. Before you try to think your way out of this, take care of the body that is carrying it. Small basics, done consistently, are some of the most powerful recovery tools you have.

TODAY'S ACTION

Drink a full glass of water, eat one real meal, get 10 minutes of daylight and take a 20-minute walk. Put your phone outside the bedroom tonight.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What does my body need from me right now, and what has it been trying to tell me?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 06

PHASE 1 · DETOX

End the Investigation

Checking their profile, asking mutual friends, rereading old messages. It feels like gathering information, but it is really feeding the attachment. Every check gives your brain a tiny hit and resets the clock on your healing. You already have all the information you need: the relationship ended, and you deserve peace more than you deserve updates.

TODAY'S ACTION

Send this to close friends: "I'm taking real space to heal. Please don't share updates about them with me. Thank you for having my back."

JOURNAL PROMPT

What am I secretly hoping to find when I check on them? What happens to my mood afterwards?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 07

PHASE 1 · DETOX

One Week Strong

Seven days. Pause and let that land. The first week is often the hardest because your whole nervous system is protesting the change. If you kept no contact perfectly, celebrate. If you slipped, you still showed up, and that matters too. Turn to the Slip-Up Reset (page 35), then keep going. Progress is the goal, not perfection.

TODAY'S ACTION

Complete the Phase 1 Check-In below. Then do one thing purely for enjoyment: a favourite meal, a film, a long bath. You earned it.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What was the hardest moment this week, and what got me through it?

PHASE 1 CHECK-IN

Days I kept no contact: ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

What helped most this week?

What will I do differently next week?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

PHASE 2 · DAYS 8–14

Rewire

02

Understand the pull

Now that the first storm has passed, you will look at why the pull is so strong. You will map your triggers, trade the highlight reel for the full picture, and start talking to yourself like someone worth rooting for.

THIS PHASE, YOU WILL

- Map your personal triggers
- See the relationship clearly, not just fondly
- Release the words you never sent
- Swap harsh self-talk for honest self-talk

DAY 08

PHASE 2 · REWIRE

Map Your Triggers

Triggers are predictable, which means they are manageable. Maybe it's 10 p.m. in bed, a certain song, a Sunday with no plans, or a moment you feel lonely or rejected. Once you can see your pattern, you can stop being ambushed by it and start planning around it. Awareness turns a trap into a road sign.

TODAY'S ACTION

Fill in your Trigger Map (page 32). For each of your top three triggers, write one specific thing you will do instead.

JOURNAL PROMPT

When do I miss them most? What time, place, feeling or memory usually comes first?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 09

PHASE 2 · REWIRE

The Full Picture

After a breakup, the mind plays a highlight reel: the best trips, the sweetest texts, the way it felt at the start. It quietly skips the anxiety, the waiting, the arguments and the moments you felt small. Today you are not trying to make them a villain. You are simply putting the whole film back together so you can see it honestly.

TODAY'S ACTION

Start your Reality Check list (page 33). Write at least 10 moments when your needs weren't met. Keep it on your phone for urge emergencies.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What did I keep explaining away, excusing or hoping would change?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 10

PHASE 2 · REWIRE

Fantasy vs. Fact

Sometimes we don't miss the person as much as we miss who we hoped they would become, or the future we had already pictured. Grieving that imagined future is real and valid. But you can only build a life on what someone actually shows you, consistently, over time. Today you gently separate the hope from the evidence.

TODAY'S ACTION

Draw a line down a page. On the left: what I hoped they'd be. On the right: what they actually showed me. Read both sides slowly.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What future am I really grieving? Which parts of that dream can I still create for myself?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 11

PHASE 2 · REWIRE

The Unsent Letter

There are probably things you still want to say: the anger, the questions, the goodbye you never got. Holding them in keeps the conversation running in your head. Sending them reopens the wound. The middle path is to write it all down and let the page receive it. This letter is for you, not for them.

TODAY'S ACTION

Write your Unsent Letter (page 36). Say everything. Then choose: keep it, rip it up, or safely burn it as a release ritual.

JOURNAL PROMPT

If I knew they would never read this, what would I finally say?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 12

PHASE 2 · REWIRE

When It Was Never Defined

If this was a situationship, you may be grieving something that never got a label, and wondering if you are even "allowed" to hurt this much. You are. Researchers call this kind of grief "ambiguous loss," and it can be harder to heal because there was no clear beginning or end. Today you give it the clarity it never had.

TODAY'S ACTION

Write one honest sentence that names what it was, for example: "It was a connection I wanted to be a relationship, with someone who wasn't ready to choose me."

JOURNAL PROMPT

What did I accept in this connection that I would not accept again?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 13

PHASE 2 · REWIRE

Rewrite the Voice

Breakups can make your inner critic loud: “I'm too much.” “No one will ever choose me.” “I ruined it.” These thoughts feel like facts because they're loud, not because they're true. You don't need fake positivity. You need a voice that is honest and kind, the voice you would use with a best friend in your position.

TODAY'S ACTION

Catch three harsh thoughts today. For each one, write a fairer replacement that is true and kind. Read the new versions out loud.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What would I say to my best friend if they were going through exactly this?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 14

PHASE 2 · REWIRE

Halfway and Rising

Two weeks of choosing yourself. Notice what's different: maybe the urges are shorter, the mornings a little lighter, the obsessive thoughts a little quieter. Healing rarely moves in a straight line, so a hard day doesn't erase your progress. You are not back at the start. You are building something.

TODAY'S ACTION

Complete the Phase 2 Check-In below. Reread your Day 1 journal entry and notice how far you've come.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What do I understand now about this relationship, and about myself, that I didn't two weeks ago?

PHASE 2 CHECK-IN

Days I kept no contact: ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

What helped most this week?

What will I do differently next week?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

PHASE 3 · DAYS 15–21

Rebuild

Come home to yourself

The final week turns your attention fully forward. You will reclaim your time, reconnect with your people, rediscover who you are outside of them, and build confidence the only reliable way: by keeping promises to yourself.

THIS PHASE, YOU WILL

- Fill the hours that used to belong to them
- Reconnect with friends and old passions
- Build confidence through small kept promises
- Write the standards you'll bring to your next chapter

DAY 15

PHASE 3 · REBUILD

Reclaim Your Time

A breakup leaves holes in your week: the nightly call, the weekend plans, the good-morning text. Empty hours are where cravings live. Instead of waiting for those hours to stop hurting, you will deliberately fill them with things that belong only to you. Your calendar is a powerful healing tool.

TODAY'S ACTION

Identify your three hardest time slots this week. Schedule something specific in each one: a class, a call, a walk, a project, a friend.

JOURNAL PROMPT

Who do I want to be on a Friday night now that this time is mine again?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 16

PHASE 3 · REBUILD

Find Your People

Relationships can quietly shrink our world. Friends drift, hobbies fade, and one person becomes the centre of everything. Reconnection is one of the strongest predictors of recovery after loss. You don't need a big social life. You need a few people who remind you who you are when you forget.

TODAY'S ACTION

Message two people you've drifted from. Keep it simple: "I've been thinking about you. Would you like to grab a coffee or catch up on a call this week?"

JOURNAL PROMPT

Who makes me feel most like myself? How can I spend more time with them?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 17

PHASE 3 · REBUILD

Rediscover You

Somewhere along the way you may have stopped doing things you love, because they didn't fit, they didn't care, or you just ran out of room. Today is about remembering. Who were you before this relationship, and who have you been wanting to become? This chapter is a chance to meet yourself again.

TODAY'S ACTION

Write down five things you used to love or always wanted to try. Do one of them, even a small version, before the day ends.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What parts of me did I shrink or hide in that relationship? Which part do I want back first?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 18

PHASE 3 · REBUILD

Confidence by Evidence

Confidence isn't something you wait to feel. It's built from evidence, and the strongest evidence is keeping your word to yourself. Every day of no contact has been a promise kept. Today you add more proof on purpose, starting small enough that you cannot fail.

TODAY'S ACTION

Make one small promise to yourself for today (e.g. “I'll be in bed by 11” or “I'll go to the gym”) and keep it. Then list five recent moments you've been proud of.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What are three things I've handled during this breakup that I didn't think I could?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 19

PHASE 3 · REBUILD

Your Non-Negotiables

Pain is a powerful teacher if you let it leave you with something useful. Today you turn what you've learned into clear standards: what you need, what you'll offer, and what you won't accept again. Standards aren't walls to keep people out. They're a filter that helps the right people in.

TODAY'S ACTION

Write your Green Flags (what you want), Red Flags (what you'll walk away from) and Must-Haves (three non-negotiables) in the space below.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What does a healthy, secure love look and feel like for me, day to day?

GREEN FLAGS

RED FLAGS

MUST-HAVES

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 20

PHASE 3 · REBUILD

A Letter From Future You

Imagine yourself one year from today: calm, lighter, living a life you love. That version of you already knows how this chapter ends. They know the pain eased. They know you were okay. Today you let them speak to you, and you borrow some of their certainty for the days you need it.

TODAY'S ACTION

Write a letter from yourself one year from now to the you of today. Describe your life, how you feel, and what helped you get there.

JOURNAL PROMPT

What does future me want me to know about this moment?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

DAY 21

PHASE 3 · REBUILD

Unhooked

Twenty-one days. You stayed with yourself through the hardest part. You learned how to ride an urge, see clearly, care for your body and rebuild your days. Healing doesn't end here, but the hook has loosened, and you now have the tools to keep going. Whatever comes next, you can trust yourself to meet it.

TODAY'S ACTION

Complete the Phase 3 Check-In and your Keep-Going Plan (page 38). Then celebrate in a way that feels meaningful. You did this.

JOURNAL PROMPT

Who am I becoming? What will I carry forward from these 21 days?

PHASE 3 CHECK-IN

Days I kept no contact: ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐ ☐

What helped most this week?

What will I do differently next week?

URGE TO REACH OUT 0 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10

MOOD IN ONE WORD _____ ☐ No contact kept today

TODAY I'M PROUD THAT _____

TOOLKIT · DAY 8

My Trigger Map

Name the moments that pull you back, so they stop catching you off guard.

	THE TRIGGER time, place, song, feeling	WHAT I USUALLY WANT TO DO	WHAT I'LL DO INSTEAD
1
2
3
4
5

Common triggers to watch for

Late at night in bed · Weekends with no plans · After drinking · Seeing them online · Their birthday or anniversaries · Songs & places you shared · Feeling lonely or rejected · Good news you want to share · Hearing they're dating · Bored scrolling

Tip: Your highest-risk moments often combine two triggers, like being tired and alone. Plan extra support for those.

TOOLKIT · DAY 9

The Reality Check

When you miss them, read this list. It's not about hate. It's about the whole truth.

01

02

03

04

05

06

07

08

09

10

11

12

NEEDS THAT WEREN'T MET

WHAT I WON'T MISS

TOOLKIT · KEEP ON YOUR PHONE

The SOS Plan

For the moment your thumb is hovering over their name.

1. Put the phone down
   Physically. Across the room, in a drawer, or in another person's hands.

2. Start the 20-minute timer
   You're not saying "never." You're saying "not for 20 minutes."

3. Breathe 4-7-8
   In for 4, hold for 7, out for 8. Repeat four times to calm your body.

4. Ask: what do I actually need?
   Comfort? Closure? Reassurance? Company? Name it, then meet it another way.

5. Read your Reality Check
   Remind yourself of the full picture, not the highlight reel.

6. Redirect the energy
   Call your support person, take a walk, shower, or write the message here instead.

THE MESSAGE I WANTED TO SEND (BUT DIDN'T)

TOOLKIT · IF YOU BREAK NO CONTACT

The Slip-Up Reset

You reached out. Or you checked. Or you answered. Take a breath. This is part of many people's healing, not the end of yours.

DO

- ✓ Pause all further contact right now
- ✓ Treat yourself with the kindness you'd show a friend
- ✓ Get curious about what triggered it
- ✓ Restart from the next day's page, not Day 1

DON'T

- ✗ Spiral into "I've ruined everything"
- ✗ Send follow-up messages to explain
- ✗ Wait for, or reread, their reply
- ✗ Decide the plan doesn't work for you

WHAT HAPPENED RIGHT BEFORE I REACHED OUT?

WHAT WAS I HOPING WOULD HAPPEN?

HOW DID I ACTUALLY FEEL AFTERWARDS?

NEXT TIME, I WILL…

TOOLKIT · DAY 11

The Unsent Letter

This letter is for you. Say everything. It will never be sent.

Dear _____,

21-Day Tracker

Colour in or tick each day you keep no contact. Write your urge score (0–10) underneath.

1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21

Detox Rewire Rebuild

Daily confidence boosters

Morning
Make your bed, drink water, and set one intention before you touch your phone.

Afternoon
Move your body for 20 minutes and talk to at least one person who cares about you.

Evening
Write three good things about your day and put your phone away an hour before bed.

DAY 21 · BEYOND THE 21 DAYS

My Keep-Going Plan

The plan ends here. Your healing keeps going. These answers are your map for what comes next.

THE HABITS FROM THIS GUIDE I'LL KEEP

MY WARNING SIGNS THAT I'M SLIPPING BACK

WHAT I'LL DO IF THEY REACH OUT TO ME

GOALS FOR MY NEXT 30 DAYS

COMPLETED

I chose myself for 21 days.

NAME

DATE

YOU DON'T HAVE TO DO THIS ALONE

Support & resources

Heartbreak can bring up depression, anxiety, or old pain. Reaching out for professional support is a sign of strength, not weakness. Consider talking to a licensed therapist or counsellor if:

- You've struggled to sleep, eat, work or get out of bed for more than two weeks
- You're relying on alcohol or other substances to cope
- The relationship involved control, threats or abuse
- You feel hopeless, or the pain feels unbearable

IF YOU ARE IN CRISIS

If you're thinking about harming yourself or feel unsafe, please contact emergency services or a crisis line now.

Canada & USA: call or text 988 (Suicide Crisis Helpline / Suicide & Crisis Lifeline) · UK & Ireland: Samaritans, 116 123 · Elsewhere: contact your local emergency number or visit findahelpline.com

> "You are not starting over. You are starting from experience."

Disclaimer: This guide is for educational and self-help purposes only and is not a substitute for professional mental-health care, diagnosis or treatment.

Unhooked

One day at a time.
One choice at a time.
Back to you.